

Envisage powers expansion at Jump Juice Bars

Charlie and Claire Scanlan of Jump Juice with Amy Hughes of Envisage

Juice and smoothie bar chain Jump Juice Bars is creating 50 new jobs amid plans to bring its total employees to 200.

The company also has plans to add six new stores bringing its total outlets to 30 stores in the next three years as part of its expansion.

Envisage, a Sage partner and part of The Noledge Group, is providing Jump Juice with the financial and business management software needed to facilitate its expansion.

With an initial investment of €40,000, Envisage's software will drive internal efficiencies through automation and will facilitate the company's expansion plans.

Charlie Scanlan, Managing Director and owner of Jump Juice Bars, said the company was delighted to announce its growth plans for the Irish market.

"Having implemented this system for our existing stores we are already able to see savings in terms of time and money. The best part of this software is that it streamlines our accounting operations and frees up time for our employees to focus on key tasks," he said.

Amy Hughes, Sales Manager at Envisage, said that when the company spoke to Jump Juice, it understood the challenges they were facing especially in terms of accounting and simplifying back-office data.

"We specialise in solving these kind of challenges and always use a personalised approach. We are thrilled to support them in their digital transformation journey, and we look forward to a long and fruitful relationship," Ms Hughes added.